Hakan Seçkin, MD, PhD received his Medical degree from Hacettepe University in 1988. He completed his neurosurgery residency program in TCSB Acil Yardım ve Travmatoloji Hospital in 1994. He worked as a Research and Clinical Fellow, University of Washington Department of Neurosurgery, Seattle, USA between 1995 and 1996. He worked in state hospitals and Ankara Dışkapı Training and Research Hospital. He did his PhD in Ankara University Department of Physiology between 2002 and 2006 on cognitive neurophysiology. He was a Skull Base Research Fellow, University of Wisconsin Department of Neurosurgery between January and August 2008. He received his associated professor degree in 2010. He now serves as an associated professor of neurosurgery in Private Lokman Hekim Hospital Neurosurgery Clinic. His main areas of interest include neuro-oncology, skull-base surgery and endoscopic neurosurgery.